Standards support innovation, competitiveness and business growth and ensure that products and services are safe and fit for purpose. Ensuring the effective participation of all categories of stakeholders, starting at the national level, is essential to ensure that standards meet the different stakeholders' needs and that no stakeholder is disadvantaged by the use or implementation of standards. The goal of the workshop organised under the High-Level Forum on European Standardisation (HLF), is to discuss issues of access and participation in standardisation at the national level and promote best practices.
